☞ A Runaway.

ON Monday morning last, a young and likely negro man slave, named DICK, left the service of the subscriber, and is now supposed to be lurking in or about the town of Alexandria. He is about 18 or 19 years of age, copper colored, well made, and wears his hair in a queu. He took with him shoemakers' tools, with which he is a tolerable workman, and had on a short jacket made of dark colored twilled Virginia cloth and pantaloons of the same.

As he went off without any sort of provocation that I know of, it is supposed he is harbored at some of the numerous tipling houses in or about the town, and perhaps kept at work to defray his expences.

I will give Ten Dollars reward for his apprehension and delivery to me, or if he is secured in any jail and notice given to me—and if he is apprehended out of the county of Fairfax or district of Columbia, I will pay Ten additional Dollars.

FROM LONDON PAPERS TO THE 9TH FEBRUARY RECEIVED AT THE OFFICE OF THE WASHINGTON MONITOR, VIA NORFOLK.

Thirtieth Bulletin of the army of Spain.

VALLADOLID, Jan. 21.

"The duke of Dalmatia left Betanzos on the 12th instant. Having reached the Mero, he found the bridge of Burgo cut. The enemy was dislodged from the village of Burgo. In the mean while gen. Franceschi ascended the river which he crossed at the bridge of Sela. He made himself master of the high road from Corunna to Santiago, and took six officers and sixty soldiers prisoners. On the same day a body of thirty marines, who were fetching water from the bay near Mero, were taken. From the village of Perillo, the English fleet could be observed in the harbor of Corunna.

"On the 13th the enemy caused 2 powder magazines situated near the heights of St. Margaret, at half a league from Corunna, to be blown up. The explosion was terrible and was felt at the distance of three leagues.

"On the 14th the bridge of Burgos was repaired, and the French artillery were able to pass. The enemy had taken a position at two leagues distance, half a league before Corunna. He was seen employed in hastily embarking his sick and wounded, the number of which according to spies and deserters amounts to 3 or 4000 men. The English were in the mean time occupied in destroying the batteries on the coast, and laying waste the country on the sea shore. The commandant of the fort of St. Philip, suspecting the fate intended for his fortification refused to admit them in it.

"On the evening of the 14th we saw a fresh convoy of one hundred and sixty sail arrive, among which were four ships of the line.

"On the morning of the 15th the divisions of Merle & Mermet occupied the heights of Villaboa, where the enemy's advanced guard was stationed which was attacked & destroyed. Our right wing was stationed on the point where the road from Corunna to Lugo, and that from Corunna to Santiago meet. The left was placed behind the village of Elvina. The enemy was stationed behind some beautiful heights.

"The rest of the 15th was spent in fixing a battery of twelve pieces of cannon—and it was not till the 16th at three o'clock in the afternoon that the duke of Dalmatia gave orders to attack.

"The assault was made upon the English by the first brigade of the division of Mermet, which over threw them and drove them from the village of Elvina. The second regiment of infantry covered itself with glory—gen. Jardon at the head of the Voltigeurs wrought a terrible carnage.—The enemy driven from its position retreated to the gardens which surround Corunna.

The night growing very dark it was necessary to suspend the attack. The enemy availed himself of this to embark with precipitation. Only six thousand of our men were engaged; and every arrangement was made for abandoning the positions of the night, and advancing next day to a general attack—The loss of the enemy has been immense. Two of our batteries played upon them during the whole of the engagement. We counted on the field of battle more than eight hundred of their dead bodies, among which was the body of general Hamilton, and those of two other general officers, whose names we are unacquainted with. We have taken 20 officers, 300 men and four pieces of cannon. The English have left behind them more than fifteen hundred killed and one hundred and fifty wounded.

"The colonel of the 47th regiment distinguished himself—An ensign of the 31st infantry killed with his own hand an English officer, who had endeavored to wrest from him his eagle. The general of artillery Bombgeat, and colonel Fontaney, have signalized themselves.

"At day break on the 17th, we saw the English convoy under sail—On the 18th the whole had disappeared.

"The duke of Dalmatia had caused a carronade to be discharged upon the vessels from the fort of Santiago. Several transports ran agound, and all the men who were on board were taken.

"We found in the establishment of the Polloza (a large manufactory in the suburbs of Corunna where the English had previously been encamped) 3000 English muskets. Magazines also were seized, containing a great quantity of ammunition and other effects belonging to the hostile army. A great number of wounded were picked up in the suburbs. The opinion of the inhabitants on the spot, and deserters is, that the number of wounded in the battle exceeds twenty five hundred men.

"Thus has terminated the English expedition which was sent into Spain. After having fomented the war in this unhappy country, the English have abandoned it. They had disembarked 38,000 men and 6,000 horses. We have taken from them according to calculation, 6,500 men, exclusive of the sick. They have re-embarked very little baggage, very little ammunition and very few horses. We have counted 5,000 killed and left behind. The men who have found an asylum on board their vessels are harrassed and dejected. In another season of the year not one of them would have escaped. The facility of cutting the bridges, the rapidity of the torrents, which in winter swell to deep rivers, the shortness of the days and the length of the nights, are very favorable to an army on their retreat.

"Of the 38,000 men whom the English had disembarked, we may be assured that scarcely 24,000 will return to England.

"The army of Romana, which at the end of December, by the aid of reinforcement which it had received from Gallicia, consisted of 16,000 men, is reduced to less than 5,000 men, who are wandering between Vigo and Santiago, and are closely pursued. The kingdom of Leon, the province of Zamora, and all Gallicia, which the English had been desirous to cover, are conquered and subdued.

"The gen. of division Lapisse, has sent patroles into Portugal, who have been well received there.

"General Maupetit has entered Salamanca; he met there some sick of the English troops."

At the end of the bulletin is inserted an intercepted letter, dated Santiago, January, 1809, and signed L. E. Thurn.

BATTLE OF CORUNNA.

London Gazette Extraordinary, dated Downing-st. Jan. 24, 1809.

The hon. captain Hope arrived late last night with a dispatch from lieutenant general sir David Baird to lord viscount Castlereagh, one of his majesty's principal secretaries of state, of which the following is a copy:

His Majesty's ship Ville de Paris, at sea, Jan. 18, 1809.

MY LORD,

By the much lamented death of lieutenant general sir John Moore, who fell in action with the enemy on the 16th instant, it has become my duty to acquaint your lordship, that the French army attacked the British troops in the position they occupied in front of Corunna, at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day. A severe wound which compelled me to quit the field a short time previous to the fall of sir John Moore, obliges me to refer your lordship for the particulars of the action, which was long and obstinately contested, to the inclosed report of lieutenant general Hope, who succeeded to the command of the army, and to whose ability and exertions in direction of the ardent zeal and unconquerable valor of his majesty's troops, is to be attributed, under Providence, the success of the day, which terminated in the complete and entire repulse and defeat of the enemy at every point of attack. The honorable captain Gordon, my aid-de-camp, will have the honor of delivering this dispatch, and will be able to give your lordship any further information which may be required.

I have the honor to be, &c.

D. BAIRD, lieut. gen.

His Majesty's ship Audacious, Off Corunna, Jan. 18, 1809.

SIR,

In compliance with the desire contained in your communication of yesterday, I avail myself of the first moment I have been able to command, to detail to you the occurrences of the action which took place in front of Corunna, on the 16th inst. It will be in your recollection, that about one in the afternoon of that day, the enemy, who had in the morning received reinforcements, and who had placed some guns in front of the right and left of his line, was observed to be moving troops towards his left flank, and forming various columns of attack at that extremity of the strong and commanding position, which, on the morning of the 15th, he had taken in our immediate front. This indication of his intention was immediately succeeded by the rapid and determined attack which he made upon your division, which occupied the right of our position. The events which occurred during that period of the action you are fully acquainted with. The first effort of the enemy was met by the commander of the forces, and by yourself, at the head of the 42d regiment, and the brigade under major general lord William Bentick. The village on your right became an object of obstinate contest. I lament to say, that soon after the severe wound which deprived the army of your services, lieut. general sir John Moore, who had just directed the most able dispositions, fell by a cannon shot. The troops, tho' not unacquainted with the irreparable loss they had sustained, were not dismayed, but by the most determined bravery not only repelled every ettempt of the enemy to gain ground, but actually forced him to retire, although he had brought up fresh troops in support of those originally engaged. The enemy, finding himself foiled in every attempt to force the right of the position, endeavored by numbers to turn it. A judicious and well timed movement, which was made by major general Paget, with the reserve, which corps had moved out of its cantonments to support the right of the army, by a vigorous attack, defeated this intention. The major general having pushed forward the 95th (rifle corps) and 1st battalion 52d regiments, drove the enemy before him, and in his rapid and judicious advance, threatened the left of the enemy's position. This circumstance, with the position of lieutenant general Fraser's division (calculated to give still further security to the right of the line) induced the enemy to relax his efforts in that quarter. They were however more forcibly directed towards the centre, where they were again successfully resisted by the brigade of major general Manningham, forming left of your division, and a part of that under major general Leith, forming the right of the division under my orders. Upon the left, the enemy at first contented himself with an attack upon our picquets, which however in general maintained their ground. Finding however his efforts unavailing on the right and centre, he seemed determined to render the attack upon the left more serious, and had succeeded in obtaining possession of the village through which the great road to Madrid passes, and which was situated in front of that part of the line. From this post, however, he was soon expelled, with considerable loss, by a gallant attack of some companies of the 2d battalion 14th regiment, under lieutenant colonel Nicolls—before five in the evening, who had not only successfully repelled every attack made upon the position, but had gained ground in almost all points, and occupied a more forward line than at the commencement of the action, whilst the enemy confined his operations to a cannonade, and a fire of his light troops, with a view to draw off his other corps. At six the firing entirely ceased. The different brigades were re-assembled on the ground they occupied in the morning, and the picquets and advanced posts resumed their original stations. Notwithstanding the decided and marked superiority which at this moment the gallantry of the troops had given them over an enemy, who from his number and the commanding advantages of his position no doubt expected an easy victory, I did not on reviewing all circumstances, conceive that I should be warranted in departing from what I knew was the fixed and previous determination of the late commander of the forces to withdraw the army on the evening of the 16th, for the purpose of embarkation, the previous arrangements for which had already been made by his order, and were in fact, far advanced at the commencement of the action. The troops quitted their position at about ten at night, with a degree of order that did them great credit. The whole of the artillery that remained unembarked having been withdrawn, the troops followed in the order prescribed, and marched to their respective points of embarkation in the town and neighborhood of Corunna. The picquets remained at their posts until five in the morning of the 17th, when they were also withdrawn with similar orders and without the enemy having discovered the movement. By the unremitting exertions of captains the hon. H. Curzin, Goselin, Boys, Rainier, Serrett, Hawkins, Digby, Carden and M'Kenzie, of the royal navy, who in pursuance of the orders of the rear admiral de Courcey, were entrusted with the service of embarking the army; and in consequence of the arrangements made by commissioner Bowen, captains Bowen and Shepherd, and the other agents for transports, the whole of the army were embarked with an expedition which has seldom been equalled. With the exception of the brigades under major-generals Hill and Beresford, which were destined to remain on shore until the movements of the enemy should become manifest, the whole was afloat before daylight. The brigade of major-general Beresford, which was alternately to form our rear guard, occupied the land front of the town of Corunna; that under major general Hill was stationed in reserve on the promontory in rear of the town. The enemy pushed his light troops towards the town soon after 8 o'clock on the morning of the 17th, and shortly after occupied the heights of St. Lucia, which command the harbor. But notwitstanding this circumstance, and the manifold defects of the place, there being no apprehension that the rear guard could be forced, and the disposition of the Spaniards appearing to be good, the embarkation of major-general Hill's brigade was commenced and completed by three in the afternoon: major-general Beresford, with that zeal and ability which is so well known to yourself and the whole army, having fully explained to the satisfaction of the Spanish governor, the nature of our movement, and having made every previous arrangement, withdrew his corps from the land front of the town soon after dark, and was with all the wounded that had not been previously moved embarked before one this morning.

Circumstances forbid us to indulge the hope, that the victory with which it has pleased providence to crown the efforts of the army, can be attended with any brilliant consequences to G. Britain. It is clouded by the loss of one of her best soldiers. It has been achieved at the termination of a long and harrassing service. The superior numbers and advantageous position of the enemy, not less than the actual situation of this army, did not admit of any advantage being reaped from success. It must be hon-

over to you, to the army, and to our country the sweetest reflection, that the lustre of the British arms has been maintained under many disadvantageous circumstances. The army which had entered Spain, amidst the fairest prospects, had no sooner completed its junction, than owing to the multiplied disasters that dispersed the native armies around us, it was left to its own resources.—The advance of the British corps from the Duero, afforded the best hope that the South of Spain might be relieved, but this generous effort to save the unfortunate people, also afforded the enemy the opportunity of directing every effort of his numerous troops and concentrating all his principal resources for the destruction of the only regular force in the north of Spain. You are well aware with what diligence this system has been pursued. These circumstances produced the necessity of rapid & harrassing marches which had diminished the numbers, exhausted the strength, and impaired the equipment of the army. Notwithstanding all these disadvantages, and those more immediately attached to a defensive position, which the imperious necessity of covering the harbor of Corunna for a time had rendered indispensable to assume, the native and undaunted valor of British troops was never more conspicuous, and must have exceeded what even your own experience of that invaluable quality so inherent in them, may have taught you to expect. When every one that had an opportunity seemed to vie in improving it—it is difficult for me in making this report to select particular instances for your approbation. The corps chiefly engaged were, the brigades under maj gens. lord W. Bentick, and Manningham, & Leith & the brigade of guards under major general Warde—To these officers, and the troops under their immediate orders, the greatest praise is due. Major general Hill and col. Catlin Crawford with their brigades on the left of the position, ably supported their advanced posts. The brunt of the action fell upon the 4th, 42d, 50th, and 81st regiments, with part of the brigade of guards and the 20th regiment—From lt. col. Murray, quarter-master-gen. and the officers of the general staff, I received the most marked assistance—I had reason to regret that the illness of brigadier-general Clinton, adjutant general, deprived me of his aid—I was indebted to brigadier general Slade during the action, for a zealous offer of his personal services, although the cavalry were embarked. The greater part of the fleet having gone to sea, yesterday evening the whole being under weigh, and the corps in the embarkation necessarily much mixed on board; it is impossible to lay before you at present a return of our casualties. I hope the loss in numbers is not so considerable as might have been expected. If I was obliged to form an estimate I should say, that I believe it did not exceed in killed and wounded from seven to eight hundred; that of the enemy must remain unknown, but many circumstances induce me to rate it at nearly double the above number. We have some prisoners but I have not been able to obtain an account of the number, it is not however considerable. Several officers of rank have fallen or been wounded, among whom I am only at present enabled to state the names of lieutenant colonel Napier, 92d regiment—majors Napier and Stanhope, 50th regiment, killed; lieutenant colonel Winch, 4th regiment, lieutenant colonel Maxwell, 26th regiment, lieutenant colonel Fane, 59th regiment, lieutenant colonel Griffith, guards, majors Miller and Williams, 81st regiment, wounded. To you who are well acquainted with the excellent qualities of lieutenant general sir John Moore, I need not expatiate on the loss the army and his country have sustained by his death. His fall has deprived me of a valuable friend, to whom long experience of his worth had sincerely attached me. But it is chiefly on public grounds that I must lament the blow. It will be the conversation of every one who loved or respected his manly character, that after conducting the army through an arduous retreat with consummate firmness, he has terminated a career of distinguished honor by a death that has given the enemy additional reason to respect the name of a British soldier. Like the immortal Wolfe, he is snatched from his country at an early period of a life spent in her service; like Wolfe, his last moments were gilded by the prospect of success, and cheered by the acclamation of victory—like Wolfe, also, his memory will ever remain sacred, in that country which he had so faithfully served. It remains for me only to express my hope, that you will be speedily restored to the service of your country, and to lament the unfortunate circumstance that removed you from your station in the field, and threw the momentary command into far less able hands. I have &c. JOHN HOPE, Lieutenant Gen.

To lieutenant general sir David Baird, &c.

We have heard that government has received by late conveyance, accounts of the complete dispersion of general Redings army in Catalonia; and that in truth there is no body of troops collected together in any part of the south and east of Spain.

Yesterday the 29th and 30th French bulletins reached town. The former dated Valadolid, 16th January, relates to transactions in the centre of Spain, and states that the duke de Bellune, had compelled 300 officers, two generals, seven colonels, 20 lieutenant colonels, and 12,000 men to lay down their arms while retreating to Alcazar. The commander, Penegas, was killed. The bulletin afterwards recites the addresses of the council of state and other public bodies at Madrid to the conqueror.

SIR JOHN MOORE.

Particulars of the hero's death by an eye witness.

"I met the general on the evening of the 16th instant, as some soldiers were bringing him into Corunna, supported in a blanket with sashes. He knew me immediately tho' it was almos dark; squeezed me by the hand, and said, 'do not leave me.' He spoke to the surgeons on examining his wound, but was in such pain he could say but little. After some time he seemed very anxious to speak to me; and at intervals expressed himself as follows:—The first question he asked was—Are the French beaten?—which enquiry he repeated to all those he knew as they entered the room. On being assured by all that the French were beaten, he exclaimed, 'I hope the people of England will be satisfied. I hope my country will do me justice. You will see my friends as soon as you possibly can—tell them every thing—say to my mother—(there his voice failed him)—'Hope—Hope—I have much to say, but cannot get it out. Is Colonel Graham, and are all my aides-de-camp well? I have made my will, and have remembered my servants. Colborne has my will, and all my papers'

"Major Colborne (his principal aid-de-camp) then came into the room—he spoke most kindly to him—and then said to me—'Remember, you go to ——, and tell him it is my request, and that I expect he will befriend Major Colborne—he has been long with me, and I know him most worthy of it.' He then again asked Major Colborne if the French were beaten; and on being told they were repulsed on every point, he said 'it was a great satisfaction, in his last moments, to know he had beat the French.'

'Is general Paget in the room?' On my telling him he was not, he said, remember me to him.'

'I feel myself so strong, I fear I shall be long dying—I am in great pain.'

'He then thanked the doctors for their attention.

'Captains Percy and Stanhope came into the room, he spoke kindly to both, and asked Percy if all his aides-de-camp were well—he pressed my hand close to his body, and in a few minutes died without a struggle.

'He said to me, while the surgeons were examining his wound—'You know I have always wished to die this way.' As far as I can recollect, this is every thing he said, except asking to be placed in an easier posture.'

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.

At the district court held yesterday morning before judge Peters, the marshall made a statement under oath of the manner in which he was resisted on the 25th ultimo by general Bright, and others under his command in military array, in his attempt to serve the process of the court, in the case of Olmstead and others against the representatives of the late David Rittenhouse, esq. Upon this statement, the judge, in compliance with his duty, issued his warrants against the said Michael Bright, and those under his command on that day (the names having been returned to the judge) for resisting the marshal in his attempt to serve the process of the court. The attorney of the district (Mr. Dallas) declared it to be the intention of the government of the United States to support and maintain the power of their courts, and enforce their process, and that the late outrage against the laws of the United States should not pass unnoticed.

The violators of the law will, if arested, be indicted before the circuit court, which begins on Tuesday next, for a violation of an act of congress, passed April 30, 1790. By this act, all persons who are guilty of resisting the judicial process of any of the courts of the United States, are liable to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding twelve months, and fined not exceeding three hundred dollars.

The bill published a few days since in this paper, relative to Olmstead's case, [which appropriates 18,000 dollars,] has passed both branches of the legislature of this state. It requires only the signature of the governor to become a law. This it is most probable has been done before this time, and it now remains for the governor to pay the money or induce civil broil.

WILLIAM EUSTIS, Esquire, Secretary of the War Department, arrived at Washington City on Saturday last.

Extract of a letter to the Editor, dated

NEW-YORK, April 6, 1809.

SIR.—At a late hour last night, a boat came up from the British February Packet, Prince Adolphus, captain Baulderston, in 43 days from Falmouth. This vessel sailed in company with the January Packet, express on the 21st of February, which has sailed and put back. The Adolphus had been 8 days from Bermuda; it appears that the French army pursued that of the British to Corunna, where a most bloody battle was fought, in which gen. Moore was killed with a cannon ball, and gen. Baird lost an arm; but the French army, three to one in number, were defeated. The British re-embarked, and had arrived in England. There had been an immense number of the French troops massacred at Madrid, and while Bonaparte was on his way in pursuit of the English army, the Spaniards retook Madrid, he was advised of this, returned with his troops, and took it a second time.

The Spaniards were concentrating their troops in the south of Spain, determined to stand as long as possible—if they could not hold out, the Junta and the brave leaders of the opposition to the tyranny of Bonaparte, were determined to embark at Cadiz for S. America

Napoleon had in consequence of unpleasant news from Austria, returned to Paris, leaving his brother Joseph at or nsar Madrid. The British government had lately sent 10,000 men to the south of Spain, and it was said the troops that had just arrived from Corunna, would be sent back.

A report from Trinidad, received at Grenada, states that the British squadron in the West Indies, to the windward of Barbadoes had fallen in with and captured twenty sail of transports and armed vessels laden with provisions, &c. for the relief of the French colonies. Three had escaped and went into Martinique where they have fallen into British protection, as their flag was still kept flying as a decoy.

The French frigate Junon has been captured in the Sombrero passage after a smart engagement with the British frigate Latona, and sloops Superieure and Wazard, and carried into Halifax.

A Dutch armed ship called the Hoop, of 8 guns with naval stores for Batavia, was captured about 400 miles N. E. of the cape of Good Hope, by the British sloop of war Lightning. This vessel sailed from the Texel in the beginning of March last year, in company with a frigate of 36 guns from which she parted in a gale the 2d day after sailing. She had visited the Dutch settlements on the Guinea coast, where she had left part of her cargo, and was prosecuting her voyage with the remainder. The bills of lading, private signal, dispatches, &c. were thrown overboard before she struck.

TO THE PUBLIC,

Who are affected with Coughs, Colds, Asthmas and Consumptions.

THERE is perhaps no medical observation better established, none more generally confirmed by the experience of the best physicians of all ages and countries, and none of more importance to the practitioner, than the fact, that many of the most difficult and incurable complaints originate in neglected COLDS. In a climate as variable as ours, where the changes of the weather, are frequently sudden and unexpected, it requires more care and attention, to guard against this subtle and dangerous enemy of life, than most people imagine, or are willing to bestow. Hence the vast number of patients afflicted with coughs, catarrhs, asthmas and consumptions. The many cases of the kind which fell under my observation, the disappointment I experienced in practice, from remedies highly recommended, and my owe pre-disposition to pulmonic complaints, were strong inducements for me to consider when ther a compound, consisting of mild vegitable substances could not be invented, more free from the well founded objections of praticioners, and better calculated to avert the threatening destruction of the lungs.

I have the satisfaction to offer to the public such a remedy, under the name of the VEGETABLE PULMONIC DETERGENT, well adapted to various constitutions and habits, and to declare with the fullest confidence that I found this composition far superior to others intended to answer the same purpose. I am perfectly satisfied, that practitioners, who have frequently to combat the effects of suppressed perspiration and do not neglect he use of the lancet and other evacuations, whenever they are indicated, will place this medicine on the list of their most favorite remedies; as it can in no case do harm. I will bide by this motto—

NO RELIEF NO PAY.

This motto may be deemed ostentatious by some, and amounting to a positiveness that the medicine will invariably effect a cure in any stage of a disease, like a miracle; the proprietor is far from believing that this medicine will render mankind immortal; but he is fully sensible if taken seasonably, and according to the directions, it will either prevent or cure, and if unseasonably, it will most sensibly alleviate distress and prolong life—and having no desire to profit by the confidence of the sick and afflicted, induces me to make the above overture; should the contrary appear in any instance, as in some it possibly may, the money for the medicine will be cheerfully refunded by the person who may vend the same.

GEORGE ROGERS.

N. B. The above named medicine is secured to the subscriber by letters patent from the President of the United States, and prepared at his Dispensary in Northampton, county of Hampshire and state of Massachusetts.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The great benefit which I have experienced from Rogers's Vegetable, &c. and a firm persuasion that it may afford relief of others, induce me to make every laudable exertion for its distribution.

For five years preceding the last of Dec. 1807, in consequence of taking a violent cold I had been afflicted with the Asthma, a disorder which I conceived to be hereditary, my father and grand-father both having greatly suffered from it. The disorder increasing rapidly upon me, in the spring of 1807, I consulted Dr. C. L. Seeger, but the urgency of his business prevented him from attending at that time, particularly to my case. My business made it necessary for me to leave home, and be absent the greatest part of summer, which deprived me of the able professional assistance of Dr. Seeger. In Sept. last, a severe cold brought on a violent cough, and the disorder assumed an aspect more serious and alarming than at any former period—I was extremely debilitated, emaciated and confined. Such was the irritability of my lungs, I was obliged to use the greatest caution in the act of respiration. After a free use of Rogers's Vegetable, &c. for about two months, I was perfectly relieved of the dreadful cough which had so long afflicted me, and completely cured of every symptom of the Asthma—In short, blessed be God, I have continued in sound health ever since.—As these facts may be important to those unfortunate individuals who are suffering from the same disorder, I have been thus particular in their detail. And I do not hesitate to declare my solemn conviction, both from my own experience and observing its effects upon others, that Rogers's V. P. D. is an easy, safe and effectual remedy for coughs and Asthmas, and is the greatest antidote to all pulmonic complaints that the world has ever witnessed.

Jacob W. Brewster.

Northampton, January, 1809.

THIS may certify, that about the first of October last, I was attacked with a violent cough, which proceeded, as was the opinion of my physician who is a man well approved of in his profession, from a bruise which I had received on my left side about a fortnight before. By his consent I tried Rogers's Pulmonic Detergent—I was very weak and low, and took but half the quantity prescribed in his directions. In three days I was much relieved, and in eight days quite cured of the cough.

Moses Parsons, jun.

Northampton, Feb. 1809.

Northampton, Mass. Feb. 1809.

I James Heaton, also hereby certify, that in the fall of the year 1808, I was seized with a severe cold attended by an obstinate and distressing cough. The violence of my cough soon produced a pain in my side and breast, and frequent spitting of blood, in short, all the horrid symptoms of a consumption were rapidly assailing me. In this situation I was recommended to Dr. George Rogers, who rendered me immediate relief by administering his Vegetable Deturgent. I have continued the use of it ever since, and for three months past, though not completely restored to health, I have been able constantly to attend to my business—and I fully believe that my partial restoration has been solely owing (under God) to this valuable medicine.

James Heaton.

To the Public.

IN consequence of taking a severe cold in May, 1808, I was seized with a violent pain in my side, attended with a distressing cough, which, although I had the advice and prescriptions of a respectable physician, lasted me four weeks, without any alleviation. I then applied to Dr. George Rogers, who administered his Vegetable Pulmonic Deturgent, which gave me immediate relief; and in ten days I was entirely freed from the pain in my side and cough.

Charles Chapman.

Northampton, March, 1809.

I, Elijah Norton, jun. of Westampton, in Massachusetts, do certify, that in the last year I was attended with a great debility—weakness of the lungs, distressed for breath, and a violent cough, attended with a fever for a number of months: about the fifteenth of August I began the use of Dr. George Rogers's Vegetable Pulmonic Detergent. I kept in the use of it about three months,—immediately after taking this medicine my cough abated, and I could breathe with more freedom. I would recommend the medicine from my own experience, to those who are troubled with a cough, and disorders of the lungs and breast, & consumptive complaints, and do believe it to be a valuable and useful medicine.
